Congressman Hayden Sees to Belated Compensation Redskins Served as Federal Volunteer Forces

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
PHOENIX, Dec. 26.—Congressman Carl Hayden has written that, after years of effort, he finally has secured pensions of $20 a month for the surviving members of Company B, First Battalion of Arizona Volunteers. The beneficiaries are Maricopa Indians, who served on a small reservation a few miles southwest of Phoenix, and are Chiricahua, who were chief of the tribe, Machie Gulick, known as Pantalon, Wanatt Shoma, now known as Ramon White, Mosak and Kotak. A like pension goes to Mary Juan of the Lehi Settlement, near Mesa, widow of "Goche Ar."

In the latter part of 1865, to take the place of the California Volunteers, whose enlistments were expiring, the organizations of Federally organized Arizona volunteers were enlisted. Three of the companies, raised at Prescott, Tucson and Fort Mohave, almost wholly had a Spanish-speaking personnel. Company E, Capt. H. H. Washburn, marched from Tucson to North-Central Arizona and was a very effective force, under grave difficulties.

Company B, of ninety-four men, was gathered at Maricopa Wells September 2, 1865, and was mustered out in the following July. Its papers show it to have been commanded by Lieut. Thomas Ewing and Charles Reidt, with Cheroquo as nominal first sergeant. Company C was made up of Pima Indians, including Chief Antonio Asul, who ranked as first sergeant. Its first captain was the widely known California writer, J. Ross Browne, and credited to "Prescott, Socorro county, Arizona." But he never served, and the active captain was John D. Walker, who spoke the Pima language well and who had a Pima wife, A. Lieutenant William A. Hancock, who in 1871 laid out the townsite of Phoenix.

Walker led the two Indian bands on several effective forays against the Mohave Apaches of the northern mountains. The pensions will date from 1865 and have a very material sort of Christmas gift.

Hit on Head by Rock

Miss Margaret Thompson, for nearly thirty years chief stenographer in the City Clerk's office, fatally injured when struck on the head by a rock dislodged on a hiking trip in Ice House Canyon on Christmas Day, died yesterday in the San Antonio Community Hospital in Ontario.

Miss Thompson, who since the death of her mother in 1918 has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Alva Jerome Bradley at 779 North Alexandria street, left early Christmas morning for Camp Baldy. Just before dusk Miss Thompson was knocked unconscious by a rock that fell in a snowslide. Medical aid was summoned from Ontario and a delicate operation was performed as soon as she had been removed to the Ontario institution. She suffered a severe basal skull fracture, and did not regain consciousness, medical attendants stated.

Miss Thompson was secretary to Municipal Clerk Carroll of the City Council. In a letter to the Council, City Clerk Dominguez said that Miss Thompson "was one of the most valued, efficient and beloved employees of the city government."

When officially informed of the woman's death, the Council, after adopting a resolution deeply regretting her loss, adjourned out of respect to her memory. Many city officials will attend the funeral service, which will be conducted at the chapel of Pierce Bros. & Co., 110 West Washington street, at 3:30 p.m. Monday. Interment will be at Rosehill Cemetery.

C. E. Cave, who is a tree man instead of a cave man, breezed into town yesterday in his tree. It is a hollow log of a giant Douglas fir, mounted on an automobile chassis, and fitted out as a complete house on wheels.

The interior of the tree is twenty-two feet long and about seven feet high, containing the driver's seat, living-room, kitchenette and breakfast nook. By economizing on space, Mr. Cave has provided also a shower bath, wardrobe and storage chest. The log-house is electrically lighted and boasts an electric cooker, the current for which is obtained by connecting with city systems of the towns he visits.

The traveling tree is an advertisement for the Pacific Northwest and will serve as such on a nation-wide tour he and his party will make. He is accompanied by his wife and his brother-in-law, J. D. Hammer. They will be in Los Angeles several days.

Former Consul Says Coast Neglects Opportunity
Declares Market Service Aids Nation's Farmers
Remarks Overproduction Still Cuts Profits

The Pacific Coast farmer is not as yet using the transportation facilities offered by the Panama Canal to the fullest possible extent in his endeavors to obtain cheaper freight rates. In the opinion of Frederick Simpich of Washington, D. C., who arrived at the Biltmore today, Simpich was formerly United States Consul at Bagdad and later held consular posts in Mexico and Guatemala. During the last year he has been engaged in an investigation of farming conditions in every part of the United States.

"It's a trite saying, but we never can get away from it, that the chief problem of American agriculture is distribution," said he. "Added thereto is the ever-present inclination to overproduction. On this Coast distribution is especially important because of the distance from market for a large amount of the commodities produced here. This is why it seems to me that a greater volume of transportation should be developed through the canal."

NO THOUGHT OF MARKET
He suggested that it has always been a weakness of the American farmer to rush in and plant his crops where the market grows best without ever giving a thought to the problem of marketing them.

"In this he has been encouraged by the government," he observed. "The agricultural department up to a short time ago laying particular stress on an increase of production, but paying little attention to marketing. Fortunately, this situation has undergone change. With the recent establishment of its market service, the government has gone into a thorough study of the farmer's distribution difficulties, with the result that already there has been an appreciable improvement in conditions."

He called attention to the fact that California for the first time in its history this last year has been supplied with a sufficient number of cars to handle its farm products adequately. This he stated was a direct result of the efforts of the government market service and the car service committee of the American Railway Association.

PROBLEM IS WEST'S
"When it is remembered that more than half of the perishable products shipped in carload lots annually in this country originate west of the Mississippi River, it is easy to realize the extent to which distribution affects agriculture, and how perplexing is the problem of moving this vast amount of material," said he.

"It was entirely natural that such centers as Chicago, for instance, should become glutted with the produce shipped there. This was what happened before any effort was made to regulate the shipments. I am told that 10,000 carloads a week of perishables have at times been received at the Chicago terminals. Perhaps only a third were unloaded there, the balance being reloaded to other points. The aim of the government market service is to prevent such glutting of any one market and to secure the most advantageous route for each commodity to reach its market with the least possible loss of time and money."

DEVELOPMENT DANGER
Speaking of the trend to overproduction of farm products, Simpich remarked that in his opinion the tendency to open new agricultural sections and extend farming operations beyond what is required by the demands of the consumer is responsible for this.

"If some man finds that cucumbers, for instance, will do particularly well in some sections, that entire region is immediately advertised as the best cucumber land on earth and capable of making any man rich in a short time," he said. "The result is that hundreds take up the growing of cucumbers in that section. Such commodity soon becomes a drug on the market and leaves a large number of eager cucumber growers broke. This has happened times without number in this country in connection with almost every product that can be raised and is one of the things that has added to the complexities of the agricultural situation."

UNITED STATES LEADS

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—Overcome as she rushed through smoke and flames to rescue her three young children, Mrs. Elizabeth Deke, 48 years of age, was burned to death today in her farm home half a mile from Franklin Park, on the Bensenville road. The fire started from an overheated stove.

The mother was made hysterical by fear for her children. Finally, she broke away from her husband, who was trying to smother her, and started through the door of the burning house.

"Lizbie, wait-for God's sake, wait. The children are jumping out of the window," she shouted, but she did not hear him. He followed her into the hallway through the smoke and flames until, blinded and severely burned, he groped his way out again. He fell exhausted into the arms of his daughter, who was trying to smother her, wrapped in blankets, were weeping and calling for their mother.

Her body was found later by firemen in the ruins of the house. It was lying beside a stove in the dining-room. She never reached the room where the children had been asleep. The body was charred beyond recognition.

(BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
LONDON, Dec. 26.—The British Minister of Agriculture has blacklisted American potatoes from importation into England. He declares they carry the Colorado beetle plague and might endanger farms. The act is entitled the "Colorado Beetle Act of 1924." It has gone into immediate effect, prohibiting any part of the United States potato crop of 1924 to be consumed or landed in Great Britain. The Minister of Agriculture will permit a consignment of American spuds on hand to be received.

BRITISH COMPLAIN OF FRENCH TRICKS
(BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
PARIS, Dec. 26.—Fashionable dressmakers have learned that British costumers are attempting to prohibit French firms using London's exclusive homes for fashion shows.

Many dressmakers are permitted to display their creations in the London salons, with the result that many orders are taken. British firms declare business is being lured away. The Board of Inland Revenue in London has been asked to action of President Calles in calling on the courts for immediate disposal, however, is expected to bring the matter to a close within a few days.

It is generally believed here that the case, which attained the importance of an international disagreement, climaxed by the expulsion from the country of H. Cunnard Cummings, an unofficial British representative in charge of the British legation, will be closed with the execution of the two men. Their appeal, it is expected, will be dismissed by the court next week, and the execution hurried in accordance with the desire of President Calles for prompt action in the case one way or the other.

CALLES ACTS IN EVANS CASE
Orders Hearing on Appeal of Two Men Convicted of Slaying British Woman

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 26.—President Calles has ordered immediate action by the courts of the State of Puebla on the appeal of Alejo Garcia and Francisco Ruiz, sentenced to death for the murder of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, according to dispatches from Puebla.

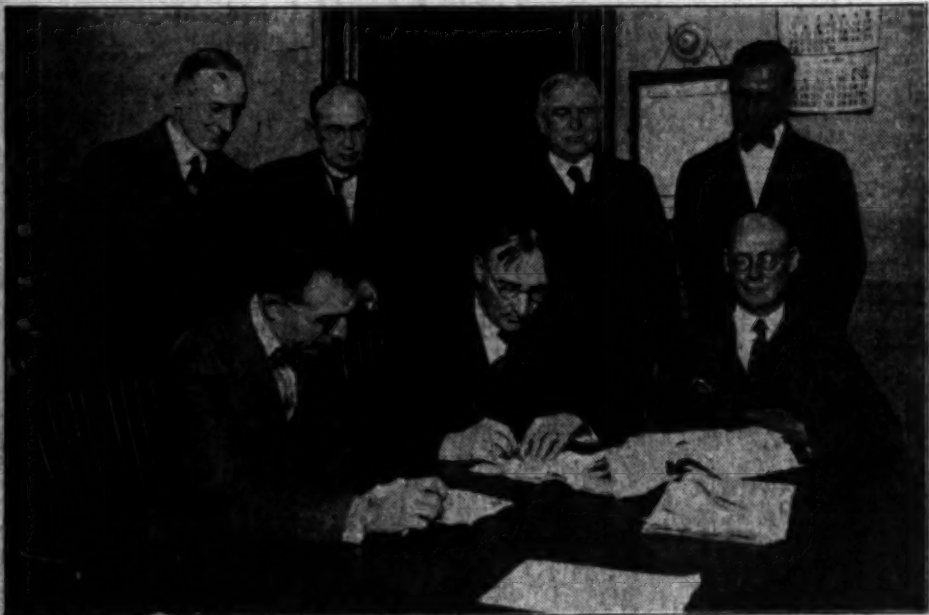

The two men were convicted attempted to influence the case. The slaying of Mrs. Evans is still the principal obstacle toward a resumption of relations between the two countries, which President Calles is known to desire at the earliest possible moment.

The dispatches from Puebla also state that all employees on the sugar plantation owned by William Jenkins, American Consul, have fled the plantation, because of the menace of bandits. A band of guerrillas under Tiburcio Coahuila, notorious bandit, are reported to be making their headquarters in the vicinity of the ranch. During the Carranza regime, Jenkins, who is one of the wealthiest Americans in Mexico, was kidnapped and his case remained in a near break between the United States and Mexico.

COPPER GROUP FORGES AHEAD

Red Metal Scores Highest Price of Year

Some Selling is Prompted by Bearish News

Steel Common Advances to New Peak Level

(BY A. P. MONT WIRE)
NEW YORK, Dec. 26.—Stock prices surged forward today under the leadership of the copper shares, shattering the Wall-street tradition of a dull and featureless post-holiday day market. Foreign exchange, industrial issues, eighteen of them, topped the list, with the highest level in five years.

Spirited buying of the copper took place following the announcement that sales of the red metal in the East were being made at 15 cents a pound for the first time this year. American Smelting was the leader in that group, jumping more than 5 points to 100 1/2, the highest quotation recorded since 1917.

Other copper to break through their previous maximum. Utah was Anacosta, Kennecott, Utah, Butte and Superior. Some reactions took place when the directors of the Inspiration Copper Company met and took no dividend payment, the recent resumption of payments by the Anacosta leading to the expectation in some quarters that the Inspiration directors would take similar action at this time.

The advance, which comprised practically all issues with the exception of the steel, took place despite the maintenance of the 4 1/2 per cent rate for call money.

United States Steel common touched 115 1/4, the highest price in seven years, on buying influenced by reports of a further expansion in steel operations. Several of the minor steels also developed marked strength. Lumber, which registered a 4-point gain on Wednesday, adding more today by touching a new top at 28 1/4.

Market Street Railway first preferred was the common stock, preferred, jumping 22 to 42 1/2. Other outstanding shares were American Ice, United States Realty, American Brake Shoe, Nash Motors, General Electric and Westinghouse Pump. All of which closed from 5 to 7 1/2 points higher.

Trading in the mixed nature of the market was the feature of the day. November earnings reports now being published. New York Central sold at 113 1/2, the best price since 1912; Norfolk and Western crossed 133 to a new high for a gain of more than 2 points, and Southern Railway preferred and "B" preferred also registered new high records.

Call money ruled unchanged at 4 1/2 per cent. The time money and commercial paper markets were unchanged with business quiet. Trading in the foreign exchange was restricted by the observance of a holiday in London, but the rate held firm. Demand sterling again was quoted above 14 1/2 and French franc ruled around 5.33 cents.

KHJ TO SPEED DEPARTING YEAR

New Godmother Introduced to Radio Listeners

Main Supply Stores Gives Musical Program

Piggly Wiggly Girls Sing Requested Numbers

BY CLARE FORBES CRANE

Another Christmas has come and gone; but the old year is still with us. And to make its last few days on earth devoid of any regrets KHJ promises that its entertainment will not fall below the lofty standards by which the station has been guided through the past months. To keep faith with that promise, KHJ introduced a new radio godmother last night in the form of the Main Supply Stores—a name which not only implies the essence of service, but which demonstrated its character last evening by giving Radioland a concert that proved not only delightful but an auspicious setting for the rapidly approaching New Year.

The program was arranged by Barbara Taylor Kierulff, harpist and teacher, and her ensemble, consisting of Evelyn Pickrell, violinist and teacher, Ruth McBride, pianist-teacher, Agnes Pearson, flutist, and Hazel Babbidge, soprano. These artists, who have been with the station since its inception, have given many of the best of their talents to the service of the radio. The program was arranged by Barbara Taylor Kierulff, harpist and teacher, and her ensemble, consisting of Evelyn Pickrell, violinist and teacher, Ruth McBride, pianist-teacher, Agnes Pearson, flutist, and Hazel Babbidge, soprano. These artists, who have been with the station since its inception, have given many of the best of their talents to the service of the radio.

The concert was opened by Barbara Taylor Kierulff, Evelyn Pickrell and Hazel Babbidge, who as a trio played a group of their own compositions, including "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni and "Moment Musical" by Schubert. The total effect of the concert was one of the most beautiful and artistic ever heard on the radio.

The vocal solo of the evening was given by Agnes Pearson, whose performance of the "Blue Bird" song was a masterpiece of art. Her rendition of the song was a masterpiece of art. Her rendition of the song was a masterpiece of art. Her rendition of the song was a masterpiece of art.

Ruth McBride, the pianist of the evening, gave several artistic readings, including "The Christmas Carol" and "The Christmas Carol." Her readings were a masterpiece of art. Her readings were a masterpiece of art. Her readings were a masterpiece of art. Her readings were a masterpiece of art.

From 11:30 to 12:15 p.m. we had a regular home musical presented by the Piggly Wiggly Girls, Hazel Babbidge, soprano, and Adele Wright, soprano. The program of the Piggly Wiggly Girls was devoted entirely to melodies of another day. The numbers were selected from written requests of Radioland, and the girls sang them with a young woman who had been pleased to honor every suggestion which came through the mail, the limited time made such task impossible as the deluge of requests would have consumed several evenings of constant playing.

Hazel Babbidge, soprano, gave a group of duets with a blending of voices, and a solo of "The Christmas Carol." Her readings were a masterpiece of art. Her readings were a masterpiece of art. Her readings were a masterpiece of art. Her readings were a masterpiece of art.

Our old friend, George Hood, varied the program by reciting the "Song of the Yuletide" and "The Christmas Carol." His readings were a masterpiece of art. His readings were a masterpiece of art. His readings were a masterpiece of art. His readings were a masterpiece of art.

Prof. Walter Riveter, Harzong, termed "Old Faithful," did not disappoint his audience last night. He opened the children's hour with his daily installment of American history. David Durand of the brown curls, and Richard Head of the curly curls, despite a strenuous Christmas, appeared at the studio as ever, and after reciting the "Song of the Yuletide," entertained the ladies and gentlemen with their particular style of recitation and story telling.

HANG M'COY, DEMAND OF FOR BOMB CLEW

Police are convinced that the bomb contained nitroglycerin, as no traces of metal or other materials usually employed in making bombs have been found in spite of the most minute search of the room at the Torchia home. Mrs. Torchia was at the bedside of her husband yesterday, his first request being that he be called. Members of the Torchia family assert that they do not know of anyone who has been in contact with the bomb, nor did they know of any enemies Torchia might have made.

"PORTMANTAU IN CLEW" The bomb package was mailed from San Francisco. It was received by the postoffice, apparently having been mailed from the postoffice substation in the Ferry Building. Deputy Sheriff Hackett yesterday found the package in a newspaper in which the bomb had been received by Torchia in his office in the Union League Building. The package was found in a waste container on the second floor of the building. In Torchia's home officers found a card which Torchia had mailed and which bore Torchia's name and address. The card bore Torchia's office address.

"WOMAN QUESTIONED" A woman questioned developed yesterday when an unidentified woman was questioned by Chief of Police Fraser of Glendale for about fifteen minutes, following which the Chief called Detective Sergeant Williams and Reyle, both of whom were working on the case. Nothing was learned regarding the identity of the woman or the nature of the information she gave. That Torchia's presence in danger saved the life of Emily, his daughter, was revealed yesterday by the daughter. She and her father were together when the package was received. She said she noticed that the address was for Torchia. Thinking that it might be for her father, her initial is the same as her father's, she asked to open it.

"THREATS CHARGED" One phase of the investigation yesterday resulted from information given by Undersecretary Blacius to the reporter. Blacius said he had recently said and had paid Torchia a fee to file a case for him. The Italian is said to have asked if he could file a criminal complaint against Torchia, and Blacius said he would do so. Blacius said he would do so. Blacius said he would do so. Blacius said he would do so.

"ACTION PLANNED" Mr. Torchia was a well-known member of the association, said Mr. Blacius. He had a reputation as a reliable and reputable standing among his fellow-practitioners. The Bar Association and it might be some action with a view toward apprehending the perpetrators who are guilty not only of crime against Torchia but of crime against the association. Some members of the association have come to me to ask for assistance in capturing the perpetrators.

"TORCHIA IN COURT" Torchia's most recent court appearance was last Wednesday when a motion was heard by Judge Thomas J. Wood made in behalf of Attorney R. S. Mann. Torchia previously had been arrested on a charge of murder in the case of the death of a woman. Torchia was released on bail and was in court yesterday. The case was heard by Judge Thomas J. Wood. The case was heard by Judge Thomas J. Wood. The case was heard by Judge Thomas J. Wood.

"ANNUARY SERVICE" The anniversary of the dedication of the new building of the Glendale Presbyterian Church was celebrated yesterday at 7:30 p.m. with a musical program. Whitney Boys chorus, of Los Angeles, will render the music. The service was a fitting tribute to the Christmas season. The service was a fitting tribute to the Christmas season. ## BANDIT SUSPECT HAS SORE JAW

Accused Man in Jail After Being Knocked Out by Fist of Victim

A very sore jaw and a determination not to be so careless in the future were noted in the City Jail yesterday by Eugene LaFond, accused robber, according to a police report.
LaFond, it is asserted, entered an oil station at 718 East Eighth street, and pointed his finger concealed in overcoat pocket at Robert Lockhart, operator. Lockhart put 'em up as directed and LaFond rifled the cash register, taking $40, it is charged. But as he went through the door Lockhart swung at his jaw and LaFond went down and out.
He did not revive, police said, until Officer Berghad threw water in his face.

PROMINENT OIL MAN IS BACK HOME

A. L. Guiberson, Jr., Family Return from Six Months' European Trip

A. L. Guiberson, Jr., familiarly known to the oil industry as Al Guiberson, has just returned with Mrs. Guiberson and their son Gordon and Allen from a six months' tour of Europe and the British Isles. They arrived in time for Christmas, but Mr. Guiberson is leaving soon for New York, where he will spend a month on business before coming back to Los Angeles for a lengthy stay.
Operators who participated in the fraternal development of the Santa Fe Springs and Signal Hill fields will remember that Mr. Guiberson, who had been connected with the Fuel Administration during the "War" years, was on the committee which promoted the pipe line runs of oil from the Los Angeles Basin fields until the peak of production was reached.

The Guibersons went to Europe purely for recreation after Mr.
Guiberson had spent several years in the oil well supply business and the oil end of the Fuel Administration. They were absent from this city about eight months. While in London, Mr. Guiberson secured the United States rights of a tiny musical device which is known as the Peter Pan phonograph, which he is now introducing in this country.

Mr. Guiberson can't seem to keep out of the oil business. Just before going abroad he joined with a Texas operator in the drilling of a wildcat well in what is now the Vernon field, about six miles from Wichita Falls, Tex. About two months ago the well came in, flowing 1600 barrels a day from a depth of 1600 feet. The crude tests 41 deg. gravity, Mr. Guiberson says. The No. 2 well, according to last reports, should be completed within two weeks and the No. 3 well is now drilling.

There may be a few scattered cases in the State where the registered owner will find it impossible to secure the pink certificate and fee to the department. Such applications, however, will be put aside until such time as the department can make proper verification of the records.

The above procedure will be exceedingly slow because of the volume of business, the statement continues. "Persons who send in their pink certificates will receive first consideration and will save themselves much trouble and delay. Motorists should make every effort to get in touch with the legal owners in case they are the registered owners."

Automobile clubs and branch of the division will not be Given a good juicy hippopotamus steak, he would ask for nothing else in the whole range of meat used for food. E. P. Barclay told the Lions Club at its weekly luncheon at the Biltmore yesterday. Barclay was manager for some ten years of one of the largest diamond-producing companies in Africa.

He recently came to California to make his home.

"A lot has been written about conditions in darkest Africa, much of it not true," said Barclay. "Instead there is a great variety of foods to choose from. Every vegetable produced in California, except cabbage and cauliflower, can be grown in Central Africa in abundance."

"As for fresh foods, you can have anything you wish to eat. They are both excellent, especially the python."

The concern with which Barclay connected conditions in Africa in the Belgian Congo, producing about $60,000 carats a year. This is about half the output of the De Beers Company at Johannesburg.

The two fields differ greatly in the manner in which diamonds are found. In the Belgian Congo, producing about $60,000 carats a year, this is about half the output of the De Beers Company at Johannesburg.

"Naturally, we had to rely on native labor and the tribes who inhabited the region where we started our operations were cannibals.
They had never worked in their lives and when introduced to the white men's methods of industry they refused to become enthusiastic. The result was that in the beginning we had to lock up our recalcitrant workmen and force them to keep them from running away. In a very short time, however, they made considerable progress in civilization."

DINNER ESCAPE
ALHAMBRA, Dec. 26.—Five perfectly good Christmas dinners are running wild somewhere in Alhambra or vicinity. A reward of $25 has been offered for their capture. Five large turkeys were stolen or strayed from the premises of William M. Orr, 140 North Vega street, some time last night, according to Orr's report to the police. He offered a reward for their return or the capture of the thief.

have charted the magic road. If you would venture into the enchanted domain you have only to behold "Peter Pan." Perhaps it is not Barrie; perhaps it is not the charming fantasy that you can recollect from the stage; perhaps it does not exert that spell which Maude Adams was sponsor. Nevertheless, it is far and away different, many times more charming, a bewitching contrast to the conventional screen entertainment. There are no trite triangle plots, no botsome domestic complications, no movieque glitter and tinsel to mar an adventure that is both novel and refreshing.
The picture had its first presentation before any audience last night at Grauman's Million Dollar Theater. It had been reserved for the Christmas season and is to be shown in many other parts of the country within the next few days.
No more acceptable time could probably have been selected for the premiere. "Peter Pan" is a true Christmas film, and there was that in the mood of the audience which betokened its special significance at this season of the year.
For all of seven years I believe have Famous Players-Lasky considered the production of this Barrie play and now finally it has assumed actuality. That is will prove yet another revelation of the witchcraft that belongs peculiarly to the province of photography.
I have no doubt, Beauty it has,
and whimsy—a rare note of gayety and comedy, and above all a grotesquely fascinating quaintness.
I do not approach this picture as an actual fulfillment. That, I feel, it may not be in the final appraisal. But it points a path so remarkably new and promising that it is to be heralded as one of the screen's most remarkable and brilliant achievements.
Of course, for those who wish to draw on the well of memory there may be shades of disappointment. The original "Peter Pan" was a thrill to be enjoyed only once, and that with Maude Adams creating an illusion so strange and eerie that theater and audience appeared to vanish into a fairyland creation. Those who saw her in the play cannot well forget that moment when Peter Pan steps before the audience and asks them whether they really do believe in fairies and they answered with an almost whispered
"yes."
TINKER BELL.
Tinker Bell's death is not for me the big moment in the new "Peter Pan." I cannot but feel the applause, which answered Peter Pan's plea, was more forced than spontaneous, for applause is not something that seems to belong logically in the picture theater.
There were many moments, though, when the effects in the picture brought a glad reaction of handclappings from the public.
Most decisive, I believe, was the approval that greeted some of those elusively captivating effects that are gained by what is more commonly called—though the phrase is to me distasteful—"trick photography." Camera magic is better.
Tiny Tinker Bell's appearance on the screen is to me a masterpiece was one of the first to capture interest. The scene where the children attempt to fly is absolutely immense. Every bit of action in which the dog Nana (portrayed by George Ali) takes part is filled with a glow of humor.
When Peter Pan shakes the elfin creatures out of the pillow of leaves there is the glamour of real surprise. The pranks that the children in Never-Never Land are unforgettable, even as is that brief episode where Peter Pan rubs nose with the Indians to show their mutual admiration.
"Peter Pan" is a rare picture, and in great measure a glorious picture, because it really does search out the child heart in the majority of us and, though it may not test deeply with its absolute immensity, it deals with a new sort of joy.
Fully half the delight of "Peter Pan" is to be found in the production, and to Herbert Brenon, who directed, Willis Goldbeck, who made the picture, and Roy Pomeroy, who is genius of the fantastic effects, belongs great praise for their accomplishments.
And now the Peter Pan. So much, indeed, that may be said for Betty Bronson. So much—
BETTY BRONSON
But what a task, what a virtually impossible one, to step into the dainty sandals worn by one of the greatest personalities of the stage!
Interpretation might be described as an almost sacred thing. It is indeed, indeed, as her whole life as a player had been shaped toward that one objective. She had remained always a mysterious, almost being herself.
Miss Bronson came to the screen with no such enchantment surrounding her. She has the one thing in her favor that she is not well known. It is a big thing, too.
Furthermore, she can for the great majority of the audience practically originate her own portrayal, though naturally this has depended to a great extent on the nature of the direction.
Her best moods in this picture are her light ones. She has a certain set of mannerisms, and these do not perfectly match the general view of Peter Pan. These disappear especially in her moods of gayety, when she is being herself. She has almost a boyish robustness.
She is plentifully human, even if slightly affected of manner.
The main aim of the picture is your idea of Peter Pan? For Peter Pan can perhaps be any personality or any type, because Peter Pan is always been a creature of the imagination. And none can say that Miss Bronson has not made her most valiant effort to accomplish a task like that of which was perhaps never known to a young girl on the screen.
The most Barrie-esque portrait, to my way of thinking, and one replete with understanding, is that of Tinker Bell as Mrs. Darling.
Her popularity as a screen personality should be a great help in her portrayal. It has a fragile sweetness that has seldom been found in any other player's work.
Mary Blair, who will be watching too. She has appeal, and except for a slight note of uncertainty at times in her acting, her work as Wendy is splendid.
Ernest Torrence, of course, is capital as Capt. Hook. The audience accepted him almost jubilantly in some of the later scenes. Just a slight trace of heavy villainage may take away from the character at times, but for the most part it is just in the right vein.
George Ali, as I have indicat-

FLASHES
ANOTHER BIG ONE
CHARLIE CHAPLIN TO MAKE
DRAMA, IS REPORT
By Grace Kingley Though Charlie Chaplin is very hard to reach these days and though he has just completed what it is prophesied will be the biggest comedy of his career, still his future plans have leaked out. At least they have been reported on good authority.
The comedian is to make another big drama, after the fashion of "The Woman of Paris," according to this report. That is, he is to direct it, but, as in his former drama, he will not appear in it.
Another interesting bit of professional gossip is to the effect that it is likely that Edna Purviance will play the lead in this drama, despite her statement that she is not sure what she will do next. Miss Purviance has always been a great asset to Chaplin. He has trained her well, she knows his ways, she has intelligence, talent and beauty, and has always seemed to bring him luck.
Just what the story will be hasn't been divulged, and it is understood that Charlie is to make the big drama very quietly, while ostensibly still at work on his comedy. It is understood that he has certain photographic experiments he desires to make. Besides, that is Charlie's way of working. He doesn't want to be bothered by sightseers, nor does he care particularly about any publicity concerning his work while it is in the making.
Another report, not quite so well authenticated, is to the effect that Charlie may make at least a portion of his drama in Europe, whither, according to recent report, he expects to go soon, accompanied by his wife, Lita Grey.
CONNIE TALMADGE
IS IN OUR MIDST
Cognate Talmadge is in town.
Positively nothing could keep her away from the three Busters—Keaton, Keaton, Jr., and Collier—not to mention sister Natalie and the other Keaton baby.
Miss Talmadge has been in New York during the past several weeks, and rather decided she would take a chance on the bounding main, taking a trip to Europe, in spite of the fact that the Atlantic Ocean does bound just a bit more at this season than is usual.
But she did hate like the mischief to be away from home at Christmas time. So she just told herself that she really ought to be back making pictures, like the good, hard-working girl she is, and she took the train for Hollywood last Thursday.
The star will start work almost at once on "The Man She Bought," after which she will appear in a film version of George Barr Mc-Cormack's "East of the Setting Sun."
